

Verse 1

20 something passes by Drowning in these city lights
Everybody's a step ahead
I know Can't get there

It's just an endless maze
The dead end that I seem to face
Twisting and turning still afraid
That I'll Fall behind

Pre-Chorus bases hold

Looking 'round wandering through
DID the seasons change
Endless cycles in reuse
Wishin' for someone to save the day

Chorus base will be bottom and middle notes for all

But I know
This race isn't 'bout time
And I know
it won't take me youth
And even if i'am
Only at my start
I know that I'll be ok

Verse 2

All wasted days i spend Laying fully awake compensate for the times
I spent passing by

Take me out of the haze
I've put myself in today
Is it too late for me to start again

Pre-Chorus

Looking 'round wandering through

DID seasons change
Endless cycles in reuse
I wish I could say all my truths

Chorus base will be bottom and middle notes for all

I'll tie my hair with the ribbons
To keep up my lies
And they'll
See a smile on my face
And even if thats
How i start my days
I'll keep whisking for a change

Bridge

Will it be ok
Will I fall behind
downing right here in my own mind
Isn't something strange
Is it really fine
I guess I'll have to be alright
I guess I'll be alright

Outro

It's the world I live in
A constant running mind
Doesn't faze me anymore
And I'll be just fine
